Case 1 — Fabric mill sourcing for an overseas apparel buyer (Upwork, 2026-11)

| | |
|---|---|
| Client type | Overseas buyer of performance fabric for a garment line (non-IT) |
| Task | Trace the mill behind a specific performance twill, compare a China purchase route, and get the mill's terms in writing. |
| What we did | Desk research on the article and mill; written report on the China route; written RFQ and follow-up questions to the mill by email. |
| Written result | • The mill (a Korean fabric mill) replied in writing that it could supply the listed article.• Its public catalog lists the article in 27 colours.• The written reply set the minimum order at 1 yard per colour.• The mill wrote that the 1-yard unit price matches its public catalog price; quantity-break prices and freight would be quoted once quantity per colour is given. |
| Format | Email only, written. No calls, no visits. |
| Status | First milestone partly paid through Upwork; remaining questions open with the mill. |

Case 2 — Korean transcript proofreading for an AI company (Upwork, 2026-11)

| | |
|---|---|
| Client type | Overseas AI / data company |
| Task | Proofread Korean speech-to-text transcripts against audio guidelines. |
| What we did | Delivered three separate fixed-price contracts; all three were completed and closed on Upwork on 21 Nov 2026. |
| Why it is here | Shows written-delivery discipline: guideline-following, deadline, and file hand-off by platform message. Korean is a native language of this desk. |
